

IMPROMPTU – DEBATE 2019

An eloquent War of Words

It's not every day one gets to witness an eloquent war- a war with the battle cries of diverse ideas, of fictitious stories, of statistics, of tall tales, witty humour and with warriors having a story to tell, and jeep loads of spectators and enthusiastic listeners to convince.

It was on 25 June, the mikes stood all tall and elegant, fellow spectators occupied the crimson seats, sitting in rapt fascination. The impromptu debate was a battle of brilliance between PSBB K K Nagar and Nungambakkam. Ten speakers occupied their well-earned seats on the stage, speaking on for 5 different topics, one on one.

The debate started with a song invoking the blessings of the Almighty, then in a short while, Samyuktha of class XII formally introduced the adjudicators - Mrs. Meera Rajagopalan and Mrs. Madumathi. The topics for the debate were-

- 1) This house believes that there is no need to sugar coat anything.
- 2) The grass appears greener on the other side because it is probably fake.
- 3) That money does talk and it usually says 'bye-bye.'
- 4) That too busy is a myth.
- 5) That having a group of few close friends is always better than large

The speakers were-

1. Siddharth Sanjai
2. Anjali Bodempdu
3. Saranya Ravindran
4. Navin Srivatsan
5. Tejas Subramanian
6. Ansh Bomb
7. Aravind Sivaram
8. Sneha Vaideeshwaran
9. Aishwarya Anand
10. Sahana Murali

Siddhath, Aravind and Tejas were rightly declared the winners, drawing curtains down, also heralding the commencement of debating society 2019-20.
